Price 1 Dollar,
GLENCARN; OR THE DISAPPOINTMENTS OF YOUTH,
A NOVEL.

By George Watterston, Esq.
Of Washington City,
Author of the Lawyer and Child of Feeling.

The celebrity of this author's "LAWYER," and "CHILD OF FEELING" induced the publishers to engage in this work, and without detracting from the merits of the former, feel themselves justified in stating that his GLENCARN is superior to either. It is submitted without further recommendation, with a wish, that the American reviewers may give further encouragement to this young gentleman's endeavors to entertain, instruct and moralise his fellow citizens, in a way seemingly well calculated to attract their attention.

CONTINUATION OF

LATE FOREIGN NEWS,
(VIA NEW-YORK.)

LONDON, March 10.

Yesterday morning Mr. Hase communicated to the gentlemen of the Stock Exchange the contents of a letter received that morning at the Bank of England, from the chancellor of the exchequer, to the following purport: That Mr. Perceval intended, in the course of next week, to make a proposition to Parliament, for the funding of a sum not exceeding £8,000,000, exchequer bills, dated between the 20th of Feb. 1809, and 16th March, 1810, both inclusive, upon the following terms: For £100, principal money subscribed, it is proposed to give £103 5s. in the navy five per cents. In the event of the whole of that sum being subscribed, Mr. Perceval states it to be his intention not to propose any addition to the navy five per cents. this session. On the proposition being approved by Parliament, the time allowed for subscriptions being received, and other particulars relative thereto, will be made public. Interest to commence from the 5th of Jan. last.

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 17.

The approach of the French troops to this neighborhood, rendering it absolutely necessary that the forts and lines in the vicinity of this garrison should be destroyed, to prevent their being occupied by the enemy, on the evening of the 14th February, the forts St. Philip and Barabara were blown up; a large party of miners under the direction of Lieut. Col. Sir C. Holloway, and other officers of engineers having been some days employed in sinking mines for that purpose. Every part of the garrison facing the Spanish lines was crouded with spectators to witness the explosion; which was truly grand and picturesque, and perfectly answered the effect for which it was intended, the entire front of both being blown into the ditch, and the whole rendered a complete mass of ruins.

Large parties of the inhabitants, who volunteered their services in aid of the military, have also been for days employed in levelling the lines between the forts.

A column of the enemy's troops entered Malaga a few days ago, where they committed all the usual atrocities which have hitherto marked their progress thro' Spain. On the 14th, a body of between 2 and 300 approached Algesiras; when an officer and 20 men entered, but retired again, after carrying off 2000 hard dollars, with some provisions and tobacco.

A large reinforcement of troops, under General Stuart, has arrived at Cadiz.

LONDON, March 7.

Yesterday arrived the Lord Hobart packet from Cadiz, by which we have letters and papers to the 21st ultimo, with much important information.

In addition to our numerous private letters, we have intelligence by several mercantile gentlemen who arrived by the packet. The most important commercial fact, affecting property to a considerable amount is, that a temporary duty of five per cent. has been imposed on all goods exported from Cadiz. Not the least alarm was felt for the present safety of that place. "It is protected," says one of our friends, "by a British force of 5,000 men, and about 20,000 Spanish troops, daily augmenting. I think," he adds, "a very few days will give an effective force of 50,000 men, and the French are likely to pay dear for their incursion." From other quarters we are informed that the Spanish general who commands in chief feels so confident of his strength, that he proposes to commence offensive operations, and from the comparative force of the enemy in the neighborhood, pleasing hopes are indulged of the result. Some additional details are given in the following official paper:

"PUBLIC NOTICE.

"The superior junta of government, which loses no opportunity of procuring information of the positions and strength of the enemy, and which will unreservedly impart to the public the intelligence it acquires, has just received official advices, that there are in Xeres 1600 of the enemy; in the towns of Cabezas, Alcala, Utrera and Lebrija, 1200; in Puerto Real, Chiclana, the bridge of the same town, and at Rota, 10,500; and in Seville, 3,000.

"It is also officially known, that the enemy lost some men yesterday during the firing from the head of the bridge of Suazo, supported by two pieces of artillery, which were advanced upon the second crossing of the road of Puerto Real. The design of this attack made by us was to obstruct their works, which they had begun near the toll gate, on the road to Chiclana.

"By order of the Superior Junta,

"MANUEL MARIA DE ARCE, Sec.

"Cadiz, Feb. 12, 1810.

A constant communication is maintained between Cadiz and the adjacent country, by vessels which are employed for this purpose; so that not only intelligence is obtained, but also provisions in sufficient abundance to supply the wants of the garrison and inhabitants. Two frigates have arrived in the harbor, one of them conveying from Porto Rico, three millions of dollars and a quantity of valuable produce; the other laden with specie and other valuable commodities.

One of the letters from Cadiz, mentions that the city of Seville, provided with 7000 troops and 400 pieces of artillery, surrendered to the enemy without firing a shot. The cause is very easily explained. We have before mentioned of the orders given by the perfidious junta to the duke of Albuquerque, which, if obeyed, would have enclosed him in a net prepared by the enemy. We now understand that general Castanos, knowing the designs of these traitors, sent a confidential messenger to that nobleman, apprising him of his danger and urging him to proceed with the utmost rapidity to the Isle of Leon.

We had also yesterday a mail from Lisbon, with letters from that capital to the 27th ult. and from the interior some days earlier. The former are wholly deficient in military intelligence, but the following letter from head quarters, contains some important particulars:

VISCO, Feb. 21.

"A French army of from 14 to 16,000, are near Cuicad Rodrigo, and have several times pushed their advanced guards close to Almeida, but it was stated yesterday, that they have fallen back. Another French army in two divisions, of from 7 to 9000 each division, has been near Olivenca and Badajos, commanded by Subastiani and Mortier. General Hill has marched from Abrantes to Elvas, with above 7000 men; the last accounts from thence, say, that these two divisions have also fallen back, and are marching into Spain.

"Lord Wellington arrived here on Saturday last; he was but two days in Lisbon. It was thought on his reaching the head quarters, the army would be ordered towards the frontiers, but at present there is no appearance of any movement.

"Within these six or eight weeks, more than 4000 men have joined their respective regiments, which were left sick in the different hospitals: the army at present is very healthy and in a very fine condition: and may be estimated at 18 or 20,000 men ready to take the field."

STATE PAPERS.

GREAT BRITAIN & AMERICA.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN MR. SECRETARY CANNING AND THE HON. D. ERSKINE.

(Laid before Parliament yesterday.)

Despatch from Mr. Secretary Canning, to the Hon. David M. Erskine, dated Foreign Office, Jan. 23, 1809.

SIR,

Your despatches from No. 46 to 49, both inclusive, have been received, and laid before the king. The most serious attention of his majesty's government has been directed to the important matter treated in those despatches; and especially to those confidential communications which you represent yourself to have received from different individuals of influence in the American government, respecting the political relations of Great Britain and the United States.

It must be confessed that the conciliatory disposition which these individuals describe to you as existing on the part of the American administration, does not appear either in the acts of the government, or in the debates of congress. But the intimations which have been given to you of the difference between the personal sentiments of Mr. Jefferson and those of his probable successor in the presidency, with respect to this country, and the hopes which you have been led to entertain, that the beginning of the new presidency may be favorable to a change of policy in America, if opportunity and encouragement for such a change shall be afforded by this country, have induced his majesty's government to review and consider the most important points of disagreement between the two governments; and I have received his majesty's command to send you such instructions on those subjects, as must, if the government of the United States be seriously disposed to accommodation, lead to their immediate and satisfactory adjustment.

The first of these points is the affair of the Chesapeake. Nothing prevented an amicable conclusion of this discussion by Mr. Rose except the refusal of the American government to withdraw the proclamation issued on the 2d July, 1807, by which the ships of war of Great Britain were interdicted from the harbors of the U. States, while those of France continued to be allowed a free resort to them.

The construction given by Mr. Madison to the resolution of the committee, to whom the consideration of the foreign relations of the United States were referred at the opening of the present session of congress, undoubtedly goes a considerable way to remove the objection to which the proclamation was liable.

Of the exclusion of the ships of war of both belligerents from the ports of a neutral state, neither belligerent has a right to complain. The partiality of that regulation alone gave to it a character of hospitality.

If, therefore, the ships of war of France shall in point of fact have been excluded from the ports of the United States, and such ships of that description as were in those ports at the time of passing the resolution, shall have been warned to depart, his majesty would no longer insist upon the formal recall of the proclamation as a preliminary to the adjustment of the difference arising from the affair of the Chesapeake. It is still necessary, however, either that the proclamation should be withdrawn, or its operation formally declared to be at an end; but it will be sufficient if that withdrawal or declaration is recorded (according to the arrangement which Mr. Madison professed himself ready to adopt) in the same instrument, or at the same time, with the terms of reparation which his majesty is now willing to offer.

The terms of reparation which Mr. Rose was authorized to propose, were in substance:

1st. A formal disavowal by his majesty of the act of admiral Berkeley;

2dly. The restoration of the men forcibly taken from on board the Chesapeake, reserving to his majesty the right of claiming in a regular way from the American government the discharge of such of them as might prove upon investigation to be either natural born subjects of his majesty, or deserters from his majesty's service;

3dly. A pecuniary provision suitable to their respective situation in life, for the widows or orphans of such men (not being natural born subjects of his majesty, nor deserters from his majesty's service) as may have been unfortunately killed on board the Chesapeake.

In return for these concessions, his majesty required:

1st. A disavowal on the part of the American government of the detention by Commodore Barron of deserters from his majesty's service. Of his denial of his having such persons on board of the ship under his command, and his refusal to deliver them upon demand:

2dly. A like disavowal of the outrages committed on the persons or property of his majesty's subjects at Norfolk, or elsewhere, in consequence of this affair; an engagement was also to be required, that the American government should not in future countenance any of its agents, civil or military, in encouraging desertion from his majesty's service.

This last point being according to the statement in your No. 47, to be provided for by a special act of congress, it is not necessary to obtain any specific engagement or declaration respecting it; and as it is above all things desirable to simplify as much as possible the conclusion of an arrangement which has been so long pending; as a recurrence to the details of the affair of the Chesapeake, of the causes which led to it, and of the discussions immediately arising out of it, might lead to complicated and fruitless controversy, his majesty, on his part, would be contented at present to waive any demand for retrospective disavowals on the part of the government of the United States, that government being, on the other hand, contented to receive back the men forcibly taken out of the Chesapeake as the single and sufficient act of reparation.

To which, however, his majesty would still be willing to add the provision for the widows and orphans of men killed in the action, but as an act of his majesty's spontaneous generosity. This arrangement we have every reason to believe, both from what Mr. Pinkney has stated to me and from what Mr. Rose reports of Mr. Madison's unofficial conversations, would be satisfactory to the American government upon this subject. Whether this arrangement shall be settled by a formal conversation, or by the exchange of ministerial notes dated the same day, and reciprocally delivered at the same time, is left to the decision of yourself and of the American minister.

I have only to add (though I see no ground to apprehend that such a demand is likely to be brought forward) that you are steadily and peremptorily to refuse any demand for any mark of his majesty's displeasure to admiral Berkeley, than that which was in the first instance manifested by that officer's immediate recal.

You are to open the subject of the Chesapeake separately and distinctly. The manner in which the proposal for the adjustment of that difference may be received will be the best test of the general disposition of the American government, and will naturally indicate the course to be pursued in respect to the further instructions which I shall proceed to communicate to you in another despatch.

I am, &c.

(Signed) GEORGE CANNING.

FOR SALE,

A valuable new MERCHANT MILL, in complete repair, with two pair of French burrs for wheat and one pair of Allegany stones for corn. There is machinery of every description for conveying the wheat from the waggon and from the packing with a very small portion of manual labor. It may be tended with less than half the labor in common mills. It is situate on the main turnpike road leading from Ashby's Gap to Alexandria, on a good stream of water as any in the parts. It is capable of making 30 barrels of flour every twenty four hours;—it is also expected the new paved road will come directly by it, which will make the carriage of flour to Alexandria short, cheap and easy.

Any person wishing to purchase will do well to make immediate application, as possession will be given the first of July. It is presumed that any person wishing to purchase would want to see the premises, where the terms will be made known by

THURSDAY, APRIL 19.

General Wilkinson arrived in the city of Washington on Tuesday evening last.

A letter from Mr. William Murdock, dated, London, Feb. 16, and March 5, says, "Good Flour is quoted (Feb. 16) at 60s. per barrel—no sales at that—and I think it will be much lower, as immense quantities of wheat have come from France and Holland in neutrals. There is no demand here for produce, except a little for immediate use; all must depend as to the non intercourse, &c.——If restrictions on your side are removed, and those by the continent continued against your trade, prices will of course come down very low, as all the continent is shut against this country.

"March 5——I am informed by Messrs. Rathbones, that your flour [good superfine] is sold from 48 to 57s. Markets for all American products continue uncertain, waiting the result of political events, on which prices will hereafter depend," &c.

Private Correspondence.——We have been obligingly favored with the following extract of a letter from Paris, dated March 6th, received via London, by the Juno, in 28 days from Portsmouth (England) to Boston. (N. Y. Com. Adv.

"The changes taking place on the continent are so rapid you can hardly follow them. Bonaparte marries the daughter of the emperor of Austria. He is stretching his arms across the northern frontiers, and will seal up the channels of commerce.—— Russia must submit to all the dictates of the great emperor, or the French eagles will be planted on the walls of St. Petersburgh; and thus will Alexander be punished for his treachery to Austria. As to Americans, their case is hopeless. When will our goverement realize the views of France? She promises every thing, and condemns every thing. Already have the American vessels seized at St. Sebastians arrived at Bayonne; and their cargoes deposited in the government stores. The sale will soon be made for the benefit of the imperial treasury."

South America.——The following regulations respecting neutral trade, were published at Beunos Ayres on the 7th December:

All vessels must consign themselves to Spanish merchants:

The consignee must present a manifest of cargo in Spanish to the administration of the custom house twenty four hours after arrival.

All goods are admitted except those prohibited, and shall pay the circular duty agreeable to the tarif; and such goods as may not be in the tarif, shall be valued at the prices of Europe.

Goods similar to those manufactured in the country shall pay a duty of 12 1-2 per cent. over and above the circular duties.

Ox and cow hides shall pay the war tax, on clearances of twelve and an half per cent. As far as respects the patriotic duty, it shall be extinguished.

Vicunier wool, bark, sheep's wool, tallow, cocoa, and hair at certain specified prices, to pay a duty of 20 per cent.

The exportation of either gold or silver is not allowed. All returns must be made in produce of the country: and to take away the same, vessels may come in ballast, and may bring such goods as are permitted for the negro trade.

The Spanish consignee must become bound for the duties, and to pay a fourth in fifteen days after having made the dispatch, and the three following months, that is one fourth in each month.

All vessels, friends and neutrals, shall be admitted, and must receive a custom house officer on board, as is customary with other vessels, and shall deposit their papers in the secretariodel governor's office, until a visit is past for sailing. The Spanish consignee shall not sell by retail on account of any foreigner.

The introduction of wine, oil, vinegar and aquardente, (except rum) is prohibited. (Phil. Register.)

Abstract of News from England, received at Boston.

The ship Juno has just arrived from Plymouth, in 28 days. London dates to the 12th March are brought.

LONDON, March 9.

The conference between marquis Wellesley and Mr. Pinkney have been frequent—and in the political circles, it is generally believed, that a basis has been mutually agreed upon, from which an amicable adjustment is looked forward to with great confidence.

The John Adams, Am. frigate, which sailed yesterday, from Cowes, has on board despatches from Mr. Pinkney, containing the proposals of the British government, and will touch at a French port, for the purpose of taking on board those of general Armstrong. The president will then have before him the final determination of the British and French governments; between which, if there be that spirit of conciliation on our part weich is reported to have been shewn—we conceive he will not hesitate. Whatever may have been thought or said on either side of the Atlantic in the moment of irritation—the Americans cannot, any more than ourselves, but see that the connection between the two countries, is in fact, indissoluble. It is a family quarrel, disgraceful to both parties, alike prejudicial to their interests; and we anxiously hope that the misunderstanding will very shortly be extinguished.

BANKS OF THE ELBE, Feb. 23.

A decree or order, is said to have arrived, or is on the way, according to which no colonial produce whatever, whether American or English, is to pass the French line of custom house officers at Hamburg coming from Altona, or any part of the Danish territory. The Hamburg merchants who trade to America, and had consignments made to them, via Tonningen, are under great apprehension that the French should enter Holstein, under some pretence or other, and seize the great quantity of American produce hoarded up there.

A letter was received by a passenger in the Juno, after he left London, and while in the channel—stating that advices had just been received, that all the American property confiscated at St. Sebastians had been ordered to Bayonne, to be stored in the public stores, and kept at the disposal of the emperor; as also all other American property in France or its dependencies.

An order of council has been issued for continuing open the West India islands to vessels from the U. S. till Dec. 1811, or 6 months after a European peace, if the colonial governors think proper.

Bonaparte's journey to Spain was postponed indefinitely; he intends, it is now said, to marry the eldest daughter of the emperor of Austria, which probably has, it is suggested, occasioned a coolness on the part of Russia. Junot was expected in Portugal, and his army had actually left Bayonne on the 8th Feb. for Burgos.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.

FRENCH HOSTILITY.

Yesterday arrived brig Sarah, Stover, 67 days from Terceira. Sailed Feb. 3. Jan. 15, the ship Nevis Pianter, Whitby, of Liverpool for St. Croix, was taken by a French frigate, 600 tons, laden with dry goods, and carried 20 guns, vessel and cargo burnt, bound to India, crew set on board a Baltimore schr. Captain Towers, from Liverpool to the W. Islands, captured and ransomed for 1600 pounds sterl. same day. The capt. informed his orders were to burn, sink, and destroy all American vessels he came across without reserve. Left Feb. 3, brig Freemason's daughter, Brigs, from Tonningen, for Philadelphia, having been sixty-five days out, was obliged to put in there for want of provisions, having seventeen passengers on board—she was considerably injured in her sails and rigging and had damaged her cargo; was repairing and would sail in 6 days—ship Enterprize, Brown, of New-York, for the Cape de Verds, in a few days. Feb. 18, in lat. 42, long. 40, passed the stern of a wreck appeared to be a ship. 21st saw two men of war. March 2, spoke a full-built ship, with waist board and ports, supposed the Fair American, Drewis, 65 days from Tonningen, for Philadelphia.—— April 6, spoke brig Echo, Berry, from N. York for Cuba, and was generously supplied with provisions, which was the more grateful, as we had seen a few days previous a new brig, name in a circle, over the cabin windows, appeared just out of port, green bottom, figure head, false cabin windows, in the centre, refuse to speak us, although we had a signal of distress hoisted.

Congress of the United States.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, April 17.

[CONCLUDED.]

[Taken for the Alexandria Gazette.]

The house disagreed to the amendments of the senate on the batture bill.

The bill authorising drawback on goods transported by land between Botton and Newport, was read a third time and passed.

The unfinished business of yesterday—the resolution to reduce the army and navy, was taken up, and after a long debate which lasted until near five o'clock. The question was taken by ayes and noes, and the resolution passed. The vote stood as follows:

To reduce the army, ayes 81, noes 31.

To reduce the navy, ayes 65, noes 46.

For the resolution taken as a whole, ayes 60, noes 31.

The resolution was referred to committees to bring in bills, and the house adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, April 18.

The house resolved itself into committee of the whole on Macon's bill No. 2. Mr. Gholson's amendment to continue the non-intercourse under consideration.

Mr. Gholson withdrew his motion for amendment, to give an opportunity for Mr. Johnson to introduce a new one.

Mr. Johnson moved to strike out the first section of the bill in order to introduce two new sections—One contemplates the interdiction of French and British armed vessels from our waters: The other lays 50 per cent. duties on all goods, wares, and merchandize imported from France or G. Britain and their dependencies.

Mr. Randolph moved to have the committee rise and report progress, that members might have an opportunity to consider the amendments and that they might be printed. This motion was negatived, 58 against it.

After some debate, the same motion was made by Mr. Garland and again negatived, 58 till against it.

Mr. Pitkin spoke with great energy and force of argument against the proposition for 10 per cent. additional duties.

Mr. Sybert read a long speech in favor of manufactures.

Mr. Livermore spoke against the amendment.

Mr. Key, with his usual eloquence and trength of argument, opposed the amendment.

The question to strike out the first section was lost; 43 to 52.

Mr. Johnson then moved his amendment as new sections.

Mr. Lyon made some observations in favor of manufactures.

Mr. Johnson made a speech in favor of his amendments.

For New-York,

Two Hundred Dollars Reward.

Ran away from the subscriber, living at Alton, King George county, Virginia, on the 23d ultimo,

A BRIGHT mulatto man, named GRIFFIN, sometimes calls himself GRIFFIN DARLING, about 25 years of age, 5 feet 6 or 8 inches high, well, though not very stout made, a very light mulatto, grey eyes, dark hair and whiskers neatly cut, being an excellent barber and accustomed as a waiter all his life, when spoken to abruptly is much addicted to stuttering—had on when he eloped, a blue round jacket with red cape and pantaloons of cloth, Suwarrow boots, white hat, and black handkerchief about his neck—it is probable he will change his dress as he has a variety of good clothing with him. Having gone off without any provocation, I have some reason to believe this fellow is making his way to Baltimore or Philadelphia, with an expectation of imposing himself as a freeman. If he is secured in jail so that I get him again, out of the state of Virginia or Maryland, or the district of Columbia, I will give Two Hundred Dollars; if otherwise secured so that I get him again, One Hundred Dollars.

Cadwalader J. Dade.

April 6—14. d10t

☞ Masters of vessels and others, are cautioned against harboring or carrying off the said fellow, at their peril.

☞ A Horse-stealer.

A travelling man with four or five horses for sale, (which were driven by a mulatto man rather elderly looking, and a short round made fellow) sold a chunky made black poney for forty four dollars, during a rainy ride from the falls bridge to the red house tavern, in Fairfax county, on the 19th March, to Aaron Miller, of said county; which horse had been some days before taken from a waggon at Cameron, but was pursued and recovered from the thief who deluded the warrant and got off. He said his name was Oben Johnson, from Elk Run, appeared to be about 25 years of age, well looking, with very red hair and whiskers and was well dressed; he said he had been selling horses in George Town and was going to Leesburg—he had a mule and two white matched grey horses in the drove. He also sold or exchanged a loose thick overcoat; which appears since to have been taken from Crawford's tavern shortly before the 19th. If any person can discover or trace either of the above named dealers, thereby leading to an exposure of them, by calling on or by writing to Mr. Snowden, the Printer of the Alexandria paper, shall receive Ten Dollars reward therefor.—He took the Centreville road from Wren's tavern.
